AGRICULTURAL.

One of the greatest cares of the far-mer now is to keep his land clear of dangerous weeds, which pollute his soil, exhaust its strength, and some-imes abnoot if not entirely destroy his crops. Of late years the most dangerous weed has been the Canada dangerous weed has been the Canada Thistle. Until recently it was unknown in this section of the country; but it has steadily followed the lines of transportation, especially the railroads, until it has made a lodgment in the Cumberland Valley. It abounds in the streets of Chambersburg about the Railroad buildings, and is spreading gradually over the county. The in the streets of Chambersburg about the Raifroad buildings, and is spreading gradually over the county. The seed, protected by its coat of down, is wafted by the winds for miles, and wherever it falls, whether the soil be rich or poor, the Canada Thistle will grow; and when it once gets a start, it will allow of no division of the soil, but elaims all the nourishment for itself. Its roots penetrate the earth very deep, and spread from year to year, until the ground becomes but a network of Thistle-roots. Unlike the common thistle it is most tenacions of life. The farmer may mow it down, but he will find ten new stocks springing up in place of the old one, and so it steadily extends until it becomes perfectly master of the soil.

In order that our farmers may know this pestilential foe, we have procured an accurate engraving (fig.

know this pestitential loe, we have procured an accurate engraving (fig. 1) of it when in bloom; and by ob-serving the peculiar formation of the leaves, it can be readily distinguished from the common thistle.

Fig. 1.—Canada Thistle. Fig. 1.—Canada Trister.

The season of the year is at hand when the Canada Thistle must be attended to at once. It is now about to bloom, and unless war is made upon it without delay with mattock and salt, its seeds will soon ripen, and they will be spreading all over the country in their downy bed. Every plan of culture of the ground has been tried to exterminate this seed, but without success; and it is pretty well settled that in but one way can successful aucceas; and it is pretty well settled that in but one way can successful war be made upon it. Take a mattock and cut the stocks off just even with the top of the earth, or a little under the earth, and drop a spoonful of sait on the stump. In a majority of cases the roots will die, and as the seeds on the stock are destroyed before maturity, it is percented from spreading. We entreat every farmer not to delay an hour in looking carefully over is entire farm, including, the lanes and fence-corners, and if a stock of the Canada Thistle can be found, let it be cut out and sait applied to the stamp at once. It abounds more particularly along the line of the Camberland Valley Railroad, but it is spreading over many portions of the Southern section of the county.

In most of the States the destrucbut one way can successful nade upon it. Take a mattock

In most of the States the destruc-on of the Carida Thistle is made tion of the Cashada Thistle is made obligatory. In Fennsylvania we have a statute on the subject, passed March 22d, 1862, which imposes severe pen-attics for permitting the Thistle to go to seed. In order, that our farmers may fully understand their duty to heuselves and each other, in the matter, we copy the law entire:

so comply with the provisions of this is shall feerest and pay a fine of fifteen dolls such all to the county treasurer, and there half to the use of the person sting the same, whe shall be a comparent with to prove the facts, to be recovered as of lotts of the like amount before any jur of the peace, or in any court of record still country.

Secretor 2. That if any person or persons, or corporation, so holding land as aforesaid, on which Ganada Thiatles, or the weeds commonly known as much, shall be growing and the properties of the same as the said of the control of the counties.

The American Agriculturist for August has an intelligent article on the subject of the Canada Thistle. It says that though we have some ten native and introduced species of thistle, there are only two which are the subject of the Canada Thistle. It is ays that though we have some to native and introduced species of thistle, there are only two which are twery troublesome to the farmer. and these are foreigners. The common "Bull thistle," or "Michigan thistle," (Cirsium lanceolatum) as it is sometimes called, is the commonest of our thistles. It is readily known by its broad luxnirant foliage and its large heads, which are an inchor more in dismeter. Though exceedingly troubles some, especially in grain fields, where it is prickly leaves are a great annoyance to the finder, it is not difficult to exterminate. Being a biennial the root is readily pulled. During the first year the plant forms a broad turn of loaves which lie close to the ground and it does not attract much notice; the second year it throws up a large flowering stem from 2 to 3 feet high and then becomes, from its very prickly leaves, a forminale casemer. During the first year of its growth a cut with the hoo, or a tablespoonful of salt applied to the crown of the plant, will destroy it. When it is allowed to run up to flower it should be pulled or cut as early as possible. The fruit, or seed as it is called, is provided with a copious down, and thousands of these little balloons with a seed attached may be seen floating upon the breeze from the field of some carcless farmer to annoy his more thrifty neighbor. If a whole neighbor horboad can be stroused to exterminate this thistic, not only from the field but from the road sides, they would soon be rid of the peat. This thistle is an exotic, but it seems to make itself perfectly at home in our cultivated fields, especially affecting the richest ground. A far more troublesome plant is the Canada Thistia (Cirsium arrease) which is perhaps the worst weed with which the farmer has to contend. As other, comparatively harmless plants have been taken for the peat. This differs from the common thising a propose, and in the same and the pulled on the read of the peat. This differs from the common thising a propose much in the way described for the couch-grass in the last number. Runcouch-grass in the last number. Running a plough or cultivator through a patch offi, instead of destroying it, only breaks up these root stocks and they become many separate plants. This plant hast two separate modes of propagation. The one is by its seeds, which are readily borne by the wind from pace to place, and the other is by its underground stems, which from a partial warfare against them only flourish and multiply. When one Canada Thistle appears upon the farm the war must begin. It is modest in its first appearance, presenting but a small appearance, presenting but a small tuft of prickly leaves, often hidden by the grass, but it must be exterminated at once. If let alone, the root-stock at once. If let alone, the root-stock extends itself for a long distance in all directions, and branches are thrown up to the surface. These are apparently winter-killed, but the returning summer shows that this is not the case, they are only killed down to the ground, and as soon as favorable weather comes their prickly stems arise from the subterranean buds and actual us. Let our farmers bear in mind the homely but excellent motto that "an ounce of prevention is bet-ter than a pound of cure." # THE SITUATION.

The Army of the Potomac is still resting on the North side of the Rappenhannock while Lee reposes on the South side. The intense heat of the last several weeks has doubtless prevented Gen. Meade from venturing on any offensive operations, and Gen. Lee is evidently too much shattered by his Pennsylvania campaign to resume the offensive. Rumors have been affoot of Lee having been have same the offensive. Rumors have been affoat of Lee having been largely reinforced, but we do not credit it for the very good reason that the rebels have not the troops to furnish him. Their universal conscription is a failure, and does not fill the vacansies created by desertions. Meado has been reinforced by Burnside's dol Corps, not less than 10,000 strong, and returned desertars, canciaccents; and conscripts have swollen his ranks until he is now quite as strong as he was before the battle of Gettysburg.

The news from Charleston is espe-

The news from Charleston is especially interesting. Gen. Glimore and Admiral Dalghren have doubtles commenced a combined attack upon commenced a commence access, and we shall have the result in a few days.

Large reinforcements have been sent to Gen. Gilmere, and he is now deemed strong enough for overy emergency. We hope soon to record the fall

The Harrisburg Patriot and Union amnounces with an air of flendish triumph that "several regiments have "been precipitated upon Schuylkill to "enforce the draft," and in the same perfidious spirt inquires.—How does "that sound? bends its energies with unrelenting fury to crimson the mining, regions of Sohuylkill, Enzerne, &c., with the blood of their, own citizans, At well knows that, there and their only is, a lingering hope of lawieseness—there where free schools are contemmed and the regular Democratic ticket voted with a yell, it makes its last, exhausing appeal for the deadly work of revolution to bagin.

It has well selected its field of operations. If it cannot breed lawless—rations. If it cannot breed lawlessness in Schrijkill, then must its occupation be gone, for in no other section of the State have ignorance, prejudice and partisan hatred promised such abundant fruits of treason. In portions of Schupjkill, peopled exclusively by miners, Jeff. Davis could reign suprome, surrounded by approving subjects, as longas frank Hughes and such echoes of his sentiments as the Patriot and Union did not invoke their prejudices against him. The writer hereof had somewhat to do with this people a year ago when the last draft was made; and in Cass township the miners stopped work If it cannot breed lawl township the miners stopped work and resolved that they would not be drafted, and that they would permit no resident of that district, however no resident of that district, however willing, to respond to the call of his country. In pursuance of that resolution they mobbed the cars loaded with patriotic conscripts and drove them out with pistols, knives and stones, and but for the timely interposition of the Catholic elergy, who finally brought them to penceable submission, we should have had the riots then which the Patriot and Union so badly wants now. A little injunity badly wants now. A little inquiry into the character, habits and preju into the character, habits and prejudices of these men, and the uses for which they are employed by designing and reckless political leaders, removes all surprise at their probable attempt to defy the laws. During three years there were thirteen deliberate murders in Cass' township, and not a single criminal was brought to trial. The District Atterney labored in vain to have processes served and in vain to have processes served and arrests made, but the civil authorities arrests made, but the civil authorities had become completely powerless before this perpetual mob. Democratic politicians must have their votes, and they cannot hang or imprison one half and vote the balance at their pleasure, so the laws have become a by-word and mockery, while an almost unanimous Democratic vote at elections; an occasional little home tot, and now and then seasons of laborate their own regulations, vary the amusements of the innocent creatures upon whom several regiments of men have been "precipitated" to enforce the laws.

whom several regiments of men have been "precipitated" to enforce the laws.

Gen. Whipple, the military commander at Pottsville, has already had several rifle balls "precipitated" at him by skulking nessassins, and the mines have been stopped by the operatives preparatory to a general shindy when the draft is made. They are perfectly masters of law-makers, law-officers and property owners in their region; and when they want prices of goods reduced, wages raised, bosses discharged, systems revised, processes prevented, or particular laws defied, they resolve to have it done, and hitherto their decree has been final.—Indiges, Sheriffs, and other officers of the courts must be voted for by the onlightened and virtuous citizens of Cass and kindred townships, and when once elected it is trouble enough for the next election, without exasperating them by imposing upon them the the leaders to keep them in order for the next election, without exaspera-ting them by imposing upon them the restraints and penalties of the laws. This has resolve was against the draft—it should not be made—the conseriors should not report for duty, and all labor has been arrested to pre-nare for a from fight. But becomes

Hon. Charles J. Biddle, whose people voted him into Congress because they believed him to be a patriot, and afterwards voted him out decisively because they found that he wasn't, has turned up allve—a fact we anounce with plassure to our Domocratic friends, especially those of the positive copperhead stripe. We had mounted Charles as dead; and would have embahned him in history with the illustrious heroes of hordre defence, had we been able to discover his deeds of daring and the bloody field on which he fell. For weeks we supposed that he had fallen is some sanguinary struggle, and found a grave in some seculaded spot, unweigh and unsung, where he would lie mosumentless and unopitaphed, because his dying valor spared no to record his achievements. But he is alive—thanks for that; he has written an address of five mortal columns—thanks for that; he has written and qublish more of the same sort—our gratitude overflows.

Charles was some two months ago and puousa more of the same sort-our gratitude overflows!. Charles was some two months ago appointed Chairman of the Demo-cratic State Committee. He bore his honors meekly until the rebel hordes honors meekly until the rebet hordes invaded Pennsylvania, when he re-solved to draw his somewhat tried but still bloodless sword against the vandais who were desolating his na-tive State. But a point of etiquette, or perhaps a grave question of political policy, confronted him. Could the Chairman of the Democratic ical policy, confronted him. Could the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee engage in actual hostility against an invading foe without compromising his party? Charles reasoned the case, and decided that he clearly could not without a special dispensation. Whereupon Charles asked leave of his masters to fight. He would fight at the head of a division, of a brigade, of a regiment, of a company, of a squad or as a private; but fight he insisted upon and fight Charles would; and to remove all difficulty in the solotion of the novel question, he proposed "to resign the position of Chairman, "in order to give assa private sudder, or "in any sphere that may be open, my, "(his) whole exertions for the defense of our invaded Commonwealth." A council was called, and the pugnative of the control of the control of the control of the product of the delicate relation a fighting soldier would sustain to the lead-or ership of the Democratic party was maded the occasion of a precedured coning soldier would sustain to the lead-ership of the Democratic party was made the occasion of a profound con-sultation. How the issue might have been determined, had not. Charles been pre-determined to fight, history will never know; but as he was all will never know; but as he was already on record as an unrelenting belligerent, the knot had to be cut and Charles had to be allowed to go. Judge Woodward therefore said—"I deherfully consents of far as I have "any interest in your movement, to "your resort to arms in the defence "of the State." He probably did not know that the Nation was engaged in a deadly war to preserve the life of the Republic, and Charles evidently fargot to tell him; but he did agree that the naughty rebels should not "with impunity tread the soil of not "with impunity tread the soil of "Pennsylvania."

Charles might have redeemed his military pomposity measurably by issuing a truly patrictic address to the Democracy, and excused himself by pleading the labor of such a mammoth production; but his address is as varoncy as his but his address is as vapory as his valor, and has not an earnest line in defence of the life of the Nation.

defence of the life of the Nation.

—Let us have a few more addresses, Charles. Hand them along!

Charleston was the tradic of treason. It was there that the first parricidal blow was aimed at the government—there that traitors first met to counsel the severance of the States—there that the bloody drama, since conacted over the graves of two hundthere that the bloody drama, since enacted over the graves of two hundred thousand citizens, was first conceived—there that the insidious poison of infidelity to the Republic had been first taught and for years poured out upon the Nation—there that Sumter fell in the first assault of armiad rapids excipted our compost flag. ed robels against our common flag. Since then two years of horrible, sick-ening war have crowded into history the most thrilling achievements and the most thrilling achievements and dinators known in the crimsoned rec-ords of human daring. The confines of the murderous foes of the Republic have been narrowed, and still nar-rowed until not a single State but can point to the national ensign float-ing within its borders, and more than half the tention delayed and origin half the territory claimed and originally held by the foes of Free Government, has been permanulty wresrnment, has been permanently wres ed from their fatal embrace.

Just now every patriotic heart turns with no ordinary emotions to Charleston. Hitherto it has escaped the scourge it nursed into colossal power to desolate the homes of others, but at last the retribution of sometimes tardy but ever sleepless justice, seems to be on the eve of its relentless vindication. The handwriting has been on the wall at Gettysburg, at Vickburg, at Port Hudson, at Helena, at Tullahoma, in characters too plain to be mbsunderstood; acters too plain to be misunderstood; and now with Lee and his shattered columns at bay south of the Rappahamnook, and Bragg and Johnston driven in confusion into the interior of the so-called confederacy, charles ton is being encircled by patriet commands on land and water; and goom we hope to see the National heart electrified with Joy over the amequatement that the home and hot-bed of treason has at last fels the avenging stroke, and has fallen before the gallant sous of the North.

—On the first page of to-day's paper we give an accurate and omparehensive map of Charleston, its approaches and defences, and the range of its various batteries. Our readers may readily understand the condition of affairs between the two costinding armies. Gen. Beauregard temminates the rabels, and it will be seen like the has every atonus bristling which his guns ready to aweep approaching par acters too plain to be misunderstood and now with Lee and his shattere

TROOK LEADURE.

There should be a Union League organized in every election district of Franklin Cowsty without delay. It needs but a little effort, is attended, with little or no expense, and in no way can so much effective work be done to promete the Union cause.

Union Leagues abould be working institutions. With active officers and efficient committees, every vote in the district can be assectained—the doubt-fla strengthemed, the thind and heal-efficient committees, every wore in the districtes his sessertained—the doubt-ful strengthessed, the thinid and besitating supplied with documents, and, above all, a full vote can thus be secured in October. A full vote in Franklin, bear in mind, will give 1,000 Union majority.

Let the good work begin at once. There is no time for delay. The enemy is busy everywhere, quietly talking about taxation, delt, Abstitionism and kindred traichery to mislead honest voters against the government. Their efforts must be met sternly by the patriotic Union men, and they have but to expose the treasonable designs of Copperhead leaders, to alienate hundreds of loyal Democrats from the support of Woodward.

Sometimes public meetings are necessary or wise—sometimes not. Let the Leagues see to this, and when speakers or documents are wanted, call on the Omstrass of the County Committee for them and they will be forthcoming. Now is the time to begin the work of organization, and we hope that two weeks hence will see in thoroughly officered Union League in every district in the county.

In another column of to-day's paper will be found the proceedings of the Union County Convention, held on Monday last; and a full Union ticket is now presented to the loyal voters for their suffrages. That there are disappointments when choice has to be made from many competent, faithful and meritorious men in the selection of a ticket, is inevitable; but the chosen representatives of the party having, after consulting the preferences of the several sections of the county, presented the names on which the loyal men can best unite, and for whom they can give the best promise of success, but one duty remains—that is to sink all preferences and regrets and unite is an earnest, determined effort to give a decisive triumph to the ticket.

We have neither time nor space to triumph to the ticket.

We have neither time nor space to review the ticket; but we can assure the Union voters of the "Green Spot" that the men upon it are kneest and competent; are strong in the affections of the loyal people, and are faithful to the Union cause as the faithful to the Union came as the needle is to the pole. Several of them wear honorable scars and maimed limbs as the testimony of their bravery in the sauguinary field in defence of the Republic, and they will ashieve a crewning victory, alike for themselves and for the government, at the polls in October next. If this ticket don't have 1,000 majority in Franklin, it will be because Union men fail to discharge their whole duty.

THE Spirit has taken a specim—but whether it was because the Union telector in Kentucky, or because General Burnside issued an order declaring that "no disleyal persons be allowed to vote." is not particularly clear from its half-column of incohoront ravings on the subject. Either would be a mortal offence to the Spirit, for if Kentucky elects an unconditional Union Governor, the bast hope of Woodward perishes in Pennsylvania; and if "disloyal persons" are denied the right of suffrage in Kentucky, it might so happen in Pennsylvania, reasons the Spirit, and then Wedensylvania, reasons the Spirit, and then Wedensylvania. Pennsylvania, reasons the Spirit, and then Woodward would figure with a most scanty column of election returns. Besides, what business has Gen. Burnafalis, "or any other man," to stop "dislayal passesse" from voting as Kestuseky? Why stop the traited "Beschounsides" brigade, or Forrest's, or Morgan's cut-throats. frost scaling house into Kontucky. as they did two years ago, voting the Robel-Democratic ticked in order to swing the Stasse out of the Union. and then go back into the rebel ranks and fiscal to fight her into the deadly embrace of Jeff. If "disloyal persons" had not been morally certain to vote the Spirit's fiscales in Kentnich its convention of the Spirit's fiscales. If "disloyal persons" had not been storally certain to vote the Spirit's ficket in Kentacky, its equanimity would not have been disturbed in behalf of the cowardly traitors who have but one purpose in voting, vizuostal or defraud Kentacky out of the Union; but the case being altered, alters the case! It pronounces deal manifestation of neuripation" and declares that such victories "are no cases for congratulation." There is only one thing wrong in the draft of the District. Bit shit. The poor negree and the sejourners from the loyal States temporarily stopping here, have all been enrolled and their masse put in the box, with the cursed disloyal population, matives of this place, "to the manor born"—those who have been sucking the milk of Uncle, or Aunthous, and gnawing away in their old age—yet silently stabbing the Government by night and by day.
