PUBLIC DISCUSSION.
Messrs. A. H. H. Stuart and Thos. J. Miles, will discuss the questions of the Gubernatorial canvas at Lexington, Rockbridge county, on the 12th inst., being the first day of the Circuit Court of Rockbridge.

Spectator and Lexington papers please.

Mr. H. E. Everett.

We are requested to state that Edward Everett, will deliver his great Washington oration in flagstaff, on the 25th or 26th of this month. We will most probably be able to give the exact day in our next issue.

Our Editors of the papers in this District are requested to take out the announcement that Gen. Harris as a candidate for Congress, (he being no longer in the field), and each of them as have not been paid their fees for announcement, will confer a favor upon General H. by forwarding their account to this office for payment.

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

The 1st of the present month is the day when Mr. Governor has fixed upon for the election of a Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals. The candidates before the people for this important office, are Col. John B. Baldwin, Wm. J. Robertson, and Judge Richard Parker, of the 13th Judicial circuit.

Much surprise has been expressed on account of the lethargy which seems to be displayed by the people about the coming election, but we are more willing to ascribe this quiet, which has characterized the canvass, rather to that calm and thinking state of mind, which ought to prevail among the people, when about to make such an important election, than to any unconcern and apathetic indifference. But if unhappily for themselves and regardless of their own best interests, the people are listless and unconscious, in regard to the judicial election, we must earnestly invoke them to throw off the lethargy which encompasses them around, and to a man, come up to the polls and cast their votes for him whom they think best fitted to fill this trancendently important office.

"No man that belongs to the Whig party—no man that belongs to the American party—no man that belongs to the Republican party, so far as I know—no man that belongs to the great Opposition party—is an advocate for disunion. For the moment, he becomes contaminated or tainted with this foul and odious and detestable heresy, he falls out of the ranks of the Opposition party, and walks straight into the ranks of the pro-slavery party, where he can find sympathy and aid and comfort from his friends—friends—friends."

Speech of John M. Chapman, of the Academy of Music, N. Y., April 2, 1859.

This speech had been delivered by the author before the Richmond Opposition Convention, and endorsed by them unanimously, as containing the principles and facts, on which the Opposition-Botts-Goggins ticket was to be run before the people of Virginia. All the intelligence, all the order, all the courtesy of the State, was claimed by this pro-slavery Convention as concentrated and thousands of honest men of the Opposition, (for the masses of the Opposition are honest and patriotic as any others), are looking to the action and movements of their great leaders in that convention, as the oracles of truth, to guide them. How cruel—how wicked for these leaders to hold such implicit confidence. What foolish error may they not expect in the ranks of their deluded followers, when their eyes become open to the deepest.

Mr. Botts could not but have known, and the intelligent leaders of that Convention must be presumed to have known, when the above quoted sentence of condemnation, was pronounced and endorsed against the Democratic party, that there was, and had been, and is to be, in it, on the North—among the members of the party, a decided and unfeigned party and parcel of the pro-slavery party, and of the Southern—acting in concert with the Southern.

Mr. Botts, and the Chavens, are regular and zealous allies and "co-workers" with the Southern party, and their sympathies are entirely with the Southern party.
