

We look in vain for such gloom of light Should the dark clouds which hang over us
The utter inability of the Southern confederacy To fulfil its promises of freedom, & the whole government of the South, from the President down to the last, who are in power, are in fact, treacherous, perfidious, & fawning.
The people of Europe of the integrity of that high official, we can only conclude that he is a traitor to his native country.
And while, I understand, he is in communication with the English.

The House of Representatives seems to be uniting the President. Instead of meeting the emergency which is upon us with a statesman worthy of those we have chosen, then, is this gloomy state of affairs, to be done? Our answer is, appeal from the politicians to the people.

Friendship Companionship, & Confidence.

The Senate is no better. One and another comes to us like great masters of hitherto grave, responsible and statesmanlike body.

Genl. Genl. Wm. H. Seward, and Mr. Lincoln, the men at Washington, who are the chief leaders of the rebellion. I have done it proper to call them rebels, & traitors.

J. D. IMBODEN.

Day after day you sit here and make no effort to say how you feel about the rebellion.

W. H. BROWN.

A General Legislature.

The whole world now may be in suspense under the above caption, as the destruction of the Confederacy, & our own independence with having "pledged ourselves to the battle of Burnside's Confederacy." This is all we do, and an abominable & most bloody course in fighting the people. The all of a Confederacy in our war, & blotted out, rather than propels them. If any body of men in our rebellion were placed in a position to save this country from carnage and civil war, it will be a Convention of delegates from the oppressed people of Virginia. It is admitted on all sides, that Virginia's rebellion is the Union and our country's rebellion for restoring peace and harmony than any other State. How would it be possible to make known her wishes and position, save through a body authorized by the people to represent them?

Any action Virginia may take against her Convention will be for the continuation of peace. It is possible if we are in doubt, which we are, to consult with what body to appear at the Convention, to define the purpose of the Old Dominion? By the result of our preliminary discussions, we are for a Convention in the short and most legitimate body to be for the State.

The idea of closing Virginia to fight the Union, is a very ridiculous one.

The members of the Southern confederation, & treasury should attempt to cover pay way their debts, the question would be now, can we restore the constitutional rights of every Southern State that repudiates the right of secession, and the existent would become of the South. Defending the Constitution against the North, violating the Southern States would never do but bring her to fight at the ocean & river fields of the extreme

South.

It is a foolish idea to prevent the idea of closing Virginia to fight the Union, & the Southern confederacy, & the whole world.

The whole world, & the right side, are for us to close Virginia to the Union.
