

STAUNTON SPECTATOR AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

Staunton Spectator.

STAUNTON, VA.

TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1860.

The STAUNTON SPECTATOR has been originating an early paper for the Western Virginia, has no superior in this section of country; an advertising medium.

Henry Clay.

No man like this country has produced, unless we may except George Washington, ever took such hold upon the affections of the "great people" as the illustrious Clay. Other men were their admiration and respect, but Henry Clay took possession of their hearts.

It was a matter of some surprise that King Emmanuel should without apparent reluctance thus give away "the cradle of his race." For about one hundred years the Count of Savoy, from whom he is descended, have held sway in that country, and it was only in 1815, when the Kingdom of Sardinia was created by the union of Piedmont, Savoy &c., that they were elevated to a rank among the crowned heads of Europe. But motives of state policy to do but controlled the event.

Victor Emmanuel is, however, amply indemnified in other quarters. The question of annexation to Sardinia has been submitted to the vote of the people of the neighboring provinces, and an overwhelming majority declaring in favor of the measure, those countries will pass under the rule of the liberal King of Italy. Not only are Parma, Modena, Lombardy and Tuscany annexed to Sardinia, but Roumania, heretofore under the Papal Government, takes the same direction by virtue of universal suffrage.

This King, says the London Times, "advances as rapidly as his unworthy object, and seems of those who perpetrated the greater wrongs now bid their 'curse' coming home."

Last Thursday, April the 12th, the 83rd anniversary of Mr. Clay's birthday, was celebrated in various sections of the Union with appropriate ceremonies. In New Orleans and in Richmond statues of the great statesman were inaugurated, and in Lexington, Kentucky, there was a celebration in honor of the completion of a movement to his memory in that city. The Virginia states was, to speak more correctly, inaugurated on the 17th day of November, 1864, by a grand-daughter of Ex-Governor James Barber. Mrs. Lucy Barber, wife of the Governor, writes to John Adams Pleasant, at the above date, that she was not a little surprised by her two grand-daughters, who resided with her, suddenly entering her chamber and exclaiming, "grandmother, what can we do for Mr. Clay?" Some tokens of respect ought to be given him by the Whig women of America, and we have been devising many plans, but on further consideration, none of them pleased us!" Before she could answer the interrogatory, one of them said, "Suppose we negotiate to raise by subscription a sufficient sum of money to purchase a handsome service of plate, with suitable Whig emblems and inscriptions?"

Mrs. Barber asked the aid of Mr. Pleasant to the scheme, which was of course heartily given. A states was suggested instead of the plate, and a difference of opinion sprung up among the ladies themselves as to the form in which they should express their gratitude for the distinguished public services of Mr. Clay, a meeting was held in Richmond on the 9th of December, which resulted in the organization of an association for the purpose of erecting a statue. Mrs. Lucy Barber was the President of the Association. The organization thus effected was followed by the formation of adjacent associations in various parts of the State, and the requisite amount of money was speedily raised. Joel T. Hunt, of Kentucky, was commissioned to execute the work. "He visited Ashland in 1844," says the Richmond Whig, "and modelled the great statue from life. After three years' labor on it, the model was shipped to Italy, whence the artist repaired for the purpose of transferring it to marble. He resided Florence in the latter part of 1849, and after waiting a whole year for the arrival of his model, which had been lost by shipwreck in the bay of Biseys, was obliged to send to Lexington for a duplicate. This had other delays protracted the completion of the work for several years, and it was not until August 27th, 1859, that the statue was shipped for the United States. It arrived in Richmond on the 28th day of January, and, a few days subsequently, was placed upon wheels and drawn by a large number of citizens to its temporary resting place in Mechanics' Hall."

On Thursday last, the 15th inst., the statue was unveiled to the gaze of admiring thousands, and with great appropriateness, the address on the occasion was delivered by Benjamin Johnson Barber, Esq., the son of Mrs. Lucy Barber, who may be said to have originated the scheme. All honor to her and all the noble women of Virginia who united in this cheering tribute to Henry Clay.

Administration of Kansas.

A bill for the admission of Kansas into the Union, under the Wyandotte Constitution, passed the House of Representatives, on Wednesday, by a vote of 134 to 73. It was warmly opposed by Southern members on various grounds—Missouri, Maryland and Quakers, of Tennessee, objected to it because Kansas has not the popular vote for a representative in the House, because the Constitution permits unemancipated Negroes to vote, and because Indians lands are included in the boundaries of the proposed State. Messrs. Smith and Garnett, of Virginia, opposed it mainly on the ground that the people of Kansas, in presenting themselves for admission, had not complied with the law.

The bill was nearly a sectional one. Only three members from the slave States—Barrett, of Missouri; Etheridge, of Tennessee, and Webster, of Maryland—voted for the bill; and only three from the free States—Eagleson, of Indiana, Stebbins, of New York, and Scott, of California—voted against it.

Southern General Association.

We call attention to the card in another column with reference to the meeting of the above body. We commend the appeal of the committee to the kind consideration of our citizens, though it is hardly necessary for us to do so, since the proverbial hospitality of Southerners gives ample guarantee that the town will not prove inhospitable on this occasion. We are informed that the delegation will be large, and that the Association has never before met west of the Mississippi River, nor in a town where the colored population gives so small, though it has been largely increased in Oberlin, Ohio, and other Anti-Slavery cities than this. These are circumstances which surely will stimulate our friends to make every effort for the success of our Southern visitors.

Staunton Correspondence.

After a long interval, notice is now received from Staunton, that the new newspaper, the "Daily Staunton Spectator," has been established, and is to appear weekly, on Saturday evenings, and to compete with the "Daily Virginian," of Lynchburg, and the "Daily Citizen," of Roanoke, both of which are published twice weekly. The new paper is to be edited by Mr. J. W. Frazee, and is to be published at the office of the "Daily Virginian," in the same building.

GOLD AND SILVER.—Few, who have not studied the subject, have any just idea of the increased production of the precious metals since 1842, when gold was first discovered in California. The estimated available annual production in 1847, amounted to $37,715,000 of silver, and $10,075,000 in gold, making a total yield of $48,790,000 per annum to supply the uses and loss of these precious metals. After 1848 the production rapidly increased up to the beginning of the year, when the annual yield was estimated in round numbers at $60,000,000 in silver, and $30,000,000 in gold, making a total product of $90,000,000, against less than $40,000,000 in 1847. In 1849, a new plan was adopted in connection with this production. Heretofore, it will be seen, the most important gains have been in gold; but while the annual production of silver has only increased 80 per cent., the production of gold has increased 1,000 per cent., a change so vast that its ultimate effect upon commerce is beyond all computation. Jesus—the sheeting train has become fixed in the minds of those who have studied the subject, all the theories they have evolved from it, are again upset by an announcement of an equal probable increase in the yield of silver. We see no reason for doubting the accuracy of our Padilla's predictions, will amount to 50,000,000 per annum.—N. Y. Journal.

The Irrigation of China.—The voyage of the Earl of Elgin, two years ago, up the great river of Yang-tze-kiang, of China, the particulars of which are only now first made known to the world through the publication of the narrative of the mission, has furnished some interesting facts relative to the interior of that empire. The ruin which the rebels have caused can hardly be believed—population often had been destroyed, and the country everywhere laid waste. Chinkiang, which once had a population of 500,000 did not contain 600 souls. The great city of Ching-ching-foo, which had been taken by the rebels, was a most desolate state. "A single dilapidated street, composed only of a few mean shops, was all that remained of that once thriving and populous city; the remainder of the vast area, composed within walls six miles in circumference, contained nothing but ruins." The rebels all fled, leaving the place a silent, desolate, and wretched, the party lands. They found its walls thrown down, large tracts were covered with the ruins of houses destroyed by the rebels, and so solitary were portions of the ruined city, that in its very centre the cottages stood on two braches of pheasants.

A letter from Washington says: Geo. W. Barker, brother of Collector Baker, of Philadelphia, has been before the Covode Investigating Committee, and testified that he was appointed assistant cashier in the Philadelphia Custom House, and has held the office since November 18, 1868, and has drawn a salary of $12,000 per year, in monthly payments, that he did not receive, and that the Custom House could not tell what date his pay was due. It is evident that he never performed any duties under the government since his appointment, but has been engaged in editing the Pennsylvania newspaper. This is held as a direct violation of the acts of Congress, and subjects both the Collector and his brother to an indictment for felony, which, it is said, will be forthcoming.

The Central Boys Club of Virginia has issued an address to the Opposition throughout the Union, urging the nomination of Mr. Botts to the National Convention at Baltimore, as the most available candidate.

The Nelsos papers state that some 60 or 70 Knights of the Golden Circle paraded the streets of that city on drill, several nights ago. The Knights were attended by a band of music.

UTLEY'S PATENT SUB-SOIL AND TURN PLOW!

THE above PLOW is now in use throughout this state,
and may be seen at Wimbleton Old Stand.

This PLOW has four distinct features, all of which recommend themselves. The first is the combination of the Sub-Soil and Turn PLOW, which should be used in the manner in which they should be used,
being so arranged as to slide
up and down, and may be placed as to turn the soil,
leaving the sub-soil perfectly broken without turning
up the clay. When this is done, the double purpose of plowing the furrows, and turning the earth, will be fully realized, as no other PLOW can do.

The second feature is the great saving of time and labor, as the Sub-Soil and Turn PLOW can be used in the manner in which they should be used,
leaving the sub-soil perfectly broken without turning
up the clay. When this is done, the double purpose
of plowing the furrows, and turning the earth, will be fully realized, as no other PLOW can do.

The third feature is the great saving of time
and labor, as the Sub-Soil and Turn PLOW can be used in the manner in which they should be used,
leaving the sub-soil perfectly broken without turning
up the clay. When this is done, the double purpose
of plowing the furrows, and turning the earth, will be fully realized, as no other PLOW can do.

The fourth feature is the great saving of time
and labor, as the Sub-Soil and Turn PLOW can be used in the manner in which they should be used,
leaving the sub-soil perfectly broken without turning
up the clay. When this is done, the double purpose
of plowing the furrows, and turning the earth, will be fully realized, as no other PLOW can do.
