Testimonial to Lieut. Gen. Jackson.
It will be seen from the subjoined correspondence that the people of Augusta have not been insensible to the signal services rendered to them by "Old Stonewall." Surely no man ever more richly merited the testimonial which has been so appropriately offered, and graciously accepted...

Within a few days after this message was received, Gen. Jackson, by a brilliant strategic movement, led unexpectedly on Millroy and routed him, and while Banks was under the impression that the conquering hero had fled to Gordonsville, he in turn attacked the two divisions of Bragg's army under Freeman and Shields at Cross Keys and Fort Retribution, and drove them discomforted and demoralized from the Valley of Virginia, and the citizens of Augusta were thus, by the brilliant strategy and unsurpassed valor of the gallant Jackson, relieved from all apprehension of danger.

These signal services of General Jackson sink deeply into the hearts of the people of Augusta, and the testimonial which they have now tendered to him is but a faint expression of their gratitude and admiration.

Lieut. Gen. Thomas J. Jackson.
Dear Sir,—On behalf of a number of the citizens of Augusta county, we respectfully beg your acceptance of the horse and equipments, which will be delivered to you by the bearer of this note.

The people of Augusta are deeply sensible of the important services which you have rendered to the country, generally, and more especially to them, in protecting their homesteads from desolation, and themselves and their families from insult and oppression, and they now desire to tender you this small testimonial of their gratitude and admiration.

That you may pass safely through the perils of the great contest for liberty and independence in which we are now engaged, and be speedily restored to the enjoyment of peaceful life, is our most earnest prayer.

Your friends and ob't serv'ts, ALEX. H. H. STUART, SAML. R. FINLEY,
J. P. THOMSON,
L. N. HENDERSON,
WM. B. KAYSER.

CATLINS COUNTY, Dec. 20, '62.
To the Hon. Alex. H. H. Stuart, and others,
GENTLEMEN.—I have this day received the beautiful horse and equipments, which have been presented to me by you on the part of citizens of Augusta county. I hasten to express my grateful appreciation of the honor you have thus conferred upon me. This evidence of regard will continue to be appreciated, not only for its intrinsic worth, but as the kind testimonial of the patriotic people of Augusta.

In reply to the complimentary manner in which you speak of my services, permit me to say, that they have fallen far short of my desires.

I trust that God who has thus far protected your homes, may continue to do so, and soon bless our country with an honorable and lasting peace.

With sentiments of high regard,
I am, gentlemen, your ob't serv't,

T. J. JACKSON.

General Franklin's sworn testimony before the Yankee Investigating Committee shows that the loss of the enemy at Fredericksburg must have been very great. He was in command on the enemy's left opposed to General Hill, and says that his loss was about ten thousand, as will be seen by the following question and answer recorded in his sworn testimony.

Question.—What, in your opinion, is the number of your killed, wounded and missing?
Answer.—I think it will amount to about ten thousand altogether.

BY TELEGRAPH

BRANTON BRAGG,
General Commanding,
MURFREESBORO, January 1, 1863.

The expedition under General Forrest has fully accomplished its object. The railroad between Memphis and Paducah has been broken in many places. Large quantities of stores, including many arms, have been captured and destroyed. Morgan has done his work well. All falls to rest.
The enemy has retreated and Mississippi is without railroad or telegraphic communications with their rear.

BRANTON BRAGG,
General Commanding,
MURFREESBORO, January 1, 1863.

The enemy has yielded by strong point, and is retreating. We occupy the whole of the line. General Wheeler, with his cavalry, made a complete circle of our position at Cross Keys. We captured and destroyed three hundred wagons, loaded with commissary stores, and behind them we secured several thousand sheep. The brigade of Brigadier General Sill, and the brigade of Brigadier General Wood, were killed and captured by us. The capture of the road was completed on Sunday.

CHATTANOOGA, January 1.—A special dispatch to the Rebel, dated Murfreesboro, 31st, says:
"Bloodthirsty raid of the war has closed." The division attacked the enemy's right flank, in the afternoon the enemy's flank was broken, and the army was driven in great confusion. General Wheeler and a number of other officers were killed. Generals Sill, McCook and Wood were killed.

General Rains, Colonel McNair, and Colonel Antry, of the twenty-ninth Mississippi, and Major General Hays, of the fifth Georgia, and Colonel Fish, of the twenty-third Louisiana, are mortally wounded.

CHATTANOOGA, December 31.—The Rebel has just received the following dispatch from Governor Harris:
"MEMPHIS, December 31.—We attacked the enemy in the position of five miles east of Paducah. We killed 2,000 and captured
