Our Prespects.

Precess indications throughout the State give us the most cheering promines for the rescess of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania this fall. From all quarters is coming up the glad intelligence, that the counties of the people in the great principles of Democracy is unabated and unabating, and that in the couning content or very merre will be strained to uphold and support the principles of that party which has thus far given strength and sceurity to car institutions.

has thus far given strength and security to our institutions.

No man need ask soly this enthusiasm prevails in the ranks of the Democracy. The reason is apparent to every observer. Indeed we should rather ask why it could be otherwise. Surely the people have heard enough and seen enough from the opposition to satisfy themselves that they need not expect from them any fairness or any truth. They certainly do not require any further evidence to show them that they professions of the opposition are false, that their was is without honesty, and that their whole line of policy is in direct analysism to every principle of harmony, good order and justice: Who knows not I that that honesty is corrupt which is one is questions which have lately been before the public mind—it has spoken as it ever spoke, loudly in defence of the true doe triese of the Constitution. In its early history it was called upon to proclaim and defend the two great truths, that there should be no religious test required for any office of profit or trust, and that this country is, and of right ought to be, the house of all who desire to enjoy freedom—the asylum for those who were expressed in every land. And today it inests just as steadily upon the recognition of these prinevery isnd. And today it inesists just as steadily upon the recognition of these prin-ciples. The democratic party is a party of-honor. When it has once pledged it-self to the support of the right, it never skulks back when that right is threatened. And what does the record show to be action of the one party on the question lavery? It reveals the fact that the mise of the Demogratic party are those are respossible for the dangers and who are responsible for the dangers and troubles which have been brought upon the country by the agitation of this subject. There is not a single fact on record which shows that the Democracy have hed any intention of interfering with the first right of the north in regard to the propagation of slavery, or of attempting to do evil to the Bouth by shridging the rights which the constitution has granted her, The policy of the party has been to do with slavery only what the constitution does with it. Time and again did the Press assert that Mr. Buchanan had written such a letter,

Who knows not that that honesty is corrupt which is one breath pleads imploringly in behalf of the colored race which it imagines is unrighteneously treated, and yet in the next is equally lead in its denagaciations of invective and repreach against the Catholic and the foreigner? Such miserably hollow sophistry as is attempted to be imposed on the psople, recommends itself only to the disgust of fair minded men, and accordingly they start back from it as they would from a serpent in their path.
