

PICTURES IN THE COLLS.

Sitting by my pleasant bright, In the dark night of December, Making pictures in the shadows...

There, behind the row of maple, In the broad and grassy green street, There, behind the shadowy branches...

Under the dim, blue mountain; Here, upon the plain below, Stands the farm house, with its windows...

Under the clover, meadow, Where the twinkling air is seen, There my happy little schoolmate...

O, in vain we ever strive, After things beyond our reach, Little heedful all the morning...

MY FIRST APPEARANCE ON ANY STAGE. BY ONE OF THE SMITH FAMILY.

In a former number of the Family Journal, I related 'Why I am a Bachelor'...

Well, then, I will at once make a clean breast of the matter. I have appeared on stage. Don't imagine, gentle reader...

After my want of success in love, as previously told, I grew unsettled and wandered about the city for weeks without any particular end in view.

I went, and was delighted. It was a new world to me—the lights, the music, the company, all served to intoxicate me...

There is high authority for all matters in this world. When the Goddess of Beauty, was married to a little blacksmith...

low-spirited. Come what might, I determined to perform the part of Richmond...

That very night I set about studying the part. It is not a very long one, and I soon succeeded in committing it to memory...

At last, the evening had dawned, and I had the satisfaction of seeing in the morning papers a statement to the effect that the part of Richmond would be undertaken by an amateur...

Well, then, I will at once make a clean breast of the matter. I have appeared on stage. Don't imagine, gentle reader...

Having by this time repeated the whole of my part over, I thought I would prepare my fencing. While making a pass at one of the side scenes, I heard a sudden rust, and my unfortunate nether garments were almost torn in twain.

I raised my head, and to my horror I found myself seated in the middle of the stage, with the whole audience before me.

I have kept my word—that fatal night was my first and only appearance on any stage.

A man who had recently been selected a major of militia, and who was not over-burdened with brains, took it into his head, on the morning of parade, to exercise a little by himself.

There is high authority for all matters in this world. When the Goddess of Beauty, was married to a little blacksmith...

CALVARY. I love the holy Son of God, Whom none this side of earth could, And none beyond have better tried...

Why did not his anger burn, And flood of vengeance on them burst, Amusing me with his bowels yearning...

And never shall I forget the day, When on my knees I stood, And saw my Saviour's face...

THE SCHOOL MASTER'S IN THAT BED. A correspondent of the New York Herald gives the following as one of many incidents that befel a "boarding schoolmaster."

I had been teaching in Missouri county, in the Sucker State, and this term had been boarding round. One evening, after school one of my little scholars stepped up to me and said: "Mr. Jones, father said you would come home with me."

"Very well," said Sarah, and passing through the room I slept in, went up stairs. About an hour had elapsed, when I heard Judy, the other one come.

"Sir!" was responded in a faint tone beside me. "The School master's in that bed!"

SMALL MEANS. The power of money is on the whole over-estimated, the greatest things which have been done for the world have not been accomplished by rich men...

There is high authority for all matters in this world. When the Goddess of Beauty, was married to a little blacksmith...

A CONTENTED FARMER. Once upon a time Frederick, King of Prussia, returned 'Old Fritz' took a ride and passed an old farmer ploughing his acre by the wayside...

"How much do you get a day?" asked the king. "Eight groschen, (about twenty cents) said the farmer."

"Bravely spoken, old man. Now I will also give you something to guess. Have you ever seen me before?"

PULPIT WIT. In Pennsylvania there is a clergyman almost as remarkable for eloquence and eccentricity as Lorenzo Dow, himself.

He was interrupted here by a man in the audience, who started up in great excitement, proclaiming himself a moderate drinker of ten years standing...

THE WIFE. There is a great deal of truth in the following lines, written by one who has unquestionably had experience, and utters what he considers the truth:

It needs no guilt to break a husband's heart. The absence of content, the unattractiveness of speech, the untidy dress and cheerless home, the forbidding scowl and deserted hearth—these, and of her nameless neglects without a crime among them, have harrowed to the quick the heart's core of many a man...

ANECDOTE OF BARON STEUBEN. On one occasion, after Arnold's treason, the Baron was on parade at a roll call, when the detested name, Arnold, was heard in one of the infantry companies of the Connecticut line.

A GOLDEN THOUGHT. We know not the author of the following, but it is one of the most beautiful productions we have ever read:

AN ORIGINAL CHARACTER. A friend who writes to the Home Journal from the shores of Lake Ontario, gives the following account of a singular man...

"Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited, or imposed upon, or otherwise angry about you."

CHARITY. Charity embraces a wide circle of all possible kindness. Every well-souled man is charity; your smiling in your brother's face is charity; and your looking to your fellow-man with virtuous indignation to his wrong-doing; your putting a new fence in the right road is charity; your assisting the blind is charity; your mending a man's shirt is charity; your giving water to the thirsty is charity...

COOPERATION OF THE WIFE. No man ever got prospered in the world without the cooperation of his wife.

KATE L. E., writing on the subject of kissing, says: "I am vain enough to pride myself on being a girl of sense, and dearly love and appreciate good kissing; indeed, I should as soon have a nice sweet kiss as a cashmere. It is to me one of life's sweetest enjoyments; some of my happiest moments have been spent in kissing."

A worthy Scotch couple, when asked how their son had broken down so early in life, gave the following explanation: "When we began life together we worked hard and lived upon porridge, and such like, gradually adding to our comforts as our means improved, until we were able at length to dine off a bit of roast meat, and sometimes a bulled chicken (chicken); but as for Jack, our son, he worked backward, and began with the chicken first."

Lord Burleigh, a great English statesman of the times of Queen Elizabeth, used to say: "I will never trust any man whose religious principles are not sound, for he that is false to God can never be a true man."

Why am I like the letter Y? Inquired a gentleman, who had called to take a lady to the theatre. "Give it up, sir." "Because I come after U."

Those who attempt nothing themselves think everything young ladies. It is chiefly young ladies of narrow understanding who wear shoes too tight for them. Try to let everybody's faults be forgotten, as you wish yours to be. Your character cannot be essentially injured, except by your own sins. Kindness is the golden chain which binds society together. What did a blind weaver never take restore his sight? He took his horse and saw. He that cannot forgive others breaks the bridge over which he himself must pass. Why are good husbands like dough? Because women (k) need them. Look out for pain, as the girl said when a fellow went to kiss her. Why is a cat's tail like a swan's bottom? Because it grows down. It should be remembered that a man's assertion is not necessarily the same as truth. One ought to have seen at one's finger's end, seeing they grow upon the palm. If you wish to put together all the good things in the world, it will be a "young man."

HOLD ON. Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, or speak harshly of any improper word.

Hold on to your hand when you are about to reach, pinch, scratch, steal, or do any improper act.

Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited, or imposed upon, or otherwise angry about you.

Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company, and insist you to join in their games, with and revelry.

Hold on to your good name at all times, for it is more valuable to you than gold, high places, or fashionable society.

Hold on to the truth, for it will serve well, and do you good throughout eternity.

Hold on to your virtue—it is above all price to you, in all times and places.

Hold on to your character, for it is, and ever will be, your best wealth.

Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, or speak harshly of any improper word.

VALLEY SPIRIT. CHAMBERSBURG, PA. Wednesday Morning, March 7, 1860. J. M. COOPER, Editor.

FOR PRESIDENT, JEREMIAH S. BLACK, Of Pennsylvania. FOR GOVERNOR, HENRY D. FOSTER, Of Westmoreland.

The Democratic Convention.

We publish in this issue of our paper a pretty full account of the doings of the Democratic State Convention, which assembled at Reading on the 29th of February. It was our happiness to be a spectator of the proceedings of that body, and we can say with truth that we never beheld a more harmonious assemblage.

The nomination of HENRY D. FOSTER for Governor was a master-stroke, and when it was announced, the countenances of the assembled thousands lit with joy and a spontaneous shout of approval rent the air.

The proceedings of this Pennsylvania Convention furnish an instructive lesson, which may be studied with profit by the Convention at Charleston.

The Delegates selected at Reading to represent Pennsylvania in the Charleston Convention, are worthy of the responsible position to which they have been assigned.

Illness of Judge Black. We regret to learn of the severe illness of Judge Black. His physical condition on Saturday last was of such a nature, as to cause an alarm on the part of his friends.

Mr. McPherson's Speech.

The amiable gentleman who represents this district in Congress delivered a speech on the 24th ult. His theme is disunion and the disorganization of Congress. He endeavors to convict the Democratic party of responsibility for the long delay in the election of a Speaker of the House.

South Americans for treason.

South Americans for treason, or included the whole Southern people at once. He might, with great profit, have investigated the cause of this muttered revolution, which comes from the South, like a statesman, instead of seeking to turn it to party account.

Serious Illness of Judge Crawford.

The venerable Judge Crawford, we are sorry to state, is lying in a critical condition at Washington. It is feared he may not survive his present attack.

For the Valley Spirit.

Although I am fully sensible of the well-merited animosity of the South to defend Democratic measures on every proper occasion, I cannot but express the opinion that you will find that your ideas of Northern freedom have been outside of the pale of States of the Union, know nothing practically of the feelings of Northern institutions.

EXPERIENCE IN THE NORTH.

From the Liberator to his Northern friends. Experience in the North, as it is called, is not a novel subject. It has been the theme of many a pamphlet, and the subject of many a political squabble.

THE LIBERAL.

My Dear Nephew—Your message and accompanying documents of the last week, came duly to hand. The copies of the N. Y. Tribune, which you were so considerate enough to send me, were punctually inserted in my stove.

FOR THE VALLEY SPIRIT.

I had the pleasure of seeing the Captain Jewell, he was hung. I was about to say, I had the pleasure of seeing him hung. He was a very old man, and his gray hairs should certainly have shaded him from ignominy.

Democratic Platform.

The following are the resolutions unanimously adopted at the Democratic State Convention at Reading. They are of the right stamp, and will be hailed with joy by every true Democrat.

Resolved, That the representatives of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania, assembled, do hereby ratify and affirm our adherence to, and our confidence in, the fundamental principles of the party, as proclaimed at the Baltimore Democratic Convention of 1848, at Baltimore, and at that of 1860, at Cincinnati.

Resolved, That we deprecate the continued agitation of the slavery question in Congress and among the people of the different sections of the Union, believing, as we do, that it tends to weaken the bonds of our common union, and to excite animosities, which are not only injurious to the members of the same great family, and are unaccomplishable good.

Resolved, That we continue firm in the opinion, that Congress has no right or power to legislate upon the subject of slavery in the States, nor has it the authority to establish slavery in any Territory, nor to exclude it therefrom.

Resolved, That the question of the right of the citizen to keep and carry a fire-arm, as a part of his personal security, and as a means of self-defense, is a just and an important question, and its decision is committed exclusively to the courts.

Resolved, That we continue firm in the opinion, that Congress has no right or power to legislate upon the subject of slavery in the States, nor has it the authority to establish slavery in any Territory, nor to exclude it therefrom.

Resolved, That we continue firm in the opinion, that Congress has no right or power to legislate upon the subject of slavery in the States, nor has it the authority to establish slavery in any Territory, nor to exclude it therefrom.

Tragedy in Virginia-Three Brothers Killed.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25.—A terrible affray occurred in Pittsburg county yesterday, resulting in the death of three persons, and the maiming of others.

The cause of the affray was a dispute over a piece of land, which had been the subject of a long and bitter quarrel between the parties.

The dispute was finally settled by a verdict in favor of one of the parties, but the violence did not stop there.

The three brothers who were killed were well-known and respected men in the community, and their deaths were a great loss to the county.

The cause of the tragedy was traced to a long-standing feud between the families of the deceased, which had become increasingly bitter over the years.

The tragedy has shocked the community, and has led to a renewed interest in the question of lawlessness in the South.

It is hoped that the example of the three brothers who were killed will serve as a warning to others, and that such a senseless waste of life will not be repeated.
