THE TREASON OF GENERAL CHARLES LEE.

(From the New York Times.)

Two questions of peculiar difficulty have long perplexed the historians of the war of American independence...

It was not, therefore, without a mixture of incredulity and surprise that we learnt that Mr. Moore had in his possession a paper in the hand writing of General Lee...

On the other hand, it seemed strange that so interesting a fact should have been kept secret during eighty-three years...

It was by the evidence of the handwriting that Mr. Moore was led to purchase these documents; having gained possession of them, he was enabled to do that first evidence, proof of character, drawn from the principal document itself.

WHITE AND BLACK LABOR.

A morning contemporary, in an article headed "Exodus of Negroes from South Carolina," makes the following statement:

"We alluded, some days ago, to the arrival in Philadelphia of a large number of free colored families from South Carolina. The inquiries of many readers as to these persons, and the curiosity of the great mass of citizens relative to their distresses, have induced us to state the causes which influenced their emigration...

"In 1822, it appears, further emancipation in South Carolina was forbidden. All slaveholders giving up the right of ownership thereafter were obliged to resign their property to the care of trustees, who voted for their freedom, paid their personal taxes, and made legal disposition of their property...

"Of the one hundred and fifty mentioned, two thirds are tradespeople. The men are carpenters, tailors, shoemakers, and masons; the females, mantua makers, milliners, laundresses, and nurses.

"This is one of the results which we said would naturally follow the prosecution of the 'irrepressible conflict,' and it is but the beginning of the end. There is very little doubt that the entire free colored population of the slave States will be compelled to depart out of communities in which it will no longer be agreeable for them to remain...

"The British press are remarking rather favorably on the new plan of attack which the first practically carried out in the United States army. The tactics were made true, and realized satisfactorily some months ago.

HOW A SCOUNDREL RAISED THE WIND.

A piece of Forgery—Newark Shoe and Leather dealers suffer to the tune of $2,800.

The Newark Express, of Oct. 30th, says: On the 18th of August last, "F. Smith and lady," as the Register of the United States Hotel tells us, came to town and took rooms at the hotel named. Mr. Smith was about 40 years of age, of very general address and appearance, while his wife was homely and apparently respectable. Mr. and Mrs. S. brought with them two children, and the party together formed a family group by no means uninteresting. They came "from the South," as the father and mother informed inquiries, and Mr. S. had some idea, could be found a suitable stand, of opening a large shoe and leather establishment in town. The gentleman had plenty of money and paid his bills promptly. One day, some time after his arrival, Mr. Smith paid a visit to Mr. Khrst, farmer in Lehigh township, this county, and purchased some land from him. Euteris; very familiarly into conversation with Mr. Khrst, he managed to find out his circumstances, as well as to learn how he spelled his name and what was the style of his writing, after which he left, leaving behind him in the bosom of the farmer no suspicious of his honesty. How he got to Khrst's place we do not know, but the pumped that gentleman well and proved himself a most ingenious scoundrel by his doings after his visit to the farmer, all must admit. With the information he had gained by his call on the farmer, he started for Easton, where he employed a lawyer to draw up a mortgage for $35,000 on the property of Adam Khrst. He then took the writing, forged the signature of Mr. Khrst and added it to the Recorder's office, and then entered it at the Recorder's office, in town, after which he proceeded to Newark, N. J., and made an assignment of the mortgage to Messrs S. S. Blauvelt, Ebenerzer C., and E. C. Abner, of that city, for $2,800 worth of shoes and leather. Smith took the mortgage to the Recorder's office on the 19th of September, assigned it on the 22d, and the assignment was entered at the office on the 24th by the above named Newark gentlemen, one or more of whom came here accompanied by a lawyer, to see that all was right in regard to the matter. The leather dealers were satisfied with their bargain after examining at the Recorder's office; no suspicion whatever rested on the mind of the Recorder, or any one else who knew of the transaction, and so Mr. Smith slipped away with his stock of goods. Early in October, Smith wrote from Harrisburg, to the firm that he had got his stock of shoes and leather off, stating that he had not determined to push on to New Orleans and open there. This excited suspicion in the Newarkers, who, coming on here and visiting Mr. Khrst in Lehigh township, discovered that the signature to the mortgage they had received was forged, and that they had been very nicely swindled by that scamp, the papers they held being not worth a cent. Smith's letter to Newark, to inform the Messrs. Blauvelt, Aber & Co., that he was going to New Orleans, was of course a mere ruse, for the purpose of throwing those gentlemen off the track of the swindler. Smith sold some of his leather in town, and before this he has doubtless disposed of the whole stock and is now enjoying the fruits of his infamous labor. The Messrs. Aber & Co., are in pursuit of him, we believe, and it is to be hoped they may bring him to justice.

FROM JAPAN—LETTER FROM MINISTER HARRIS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The State Department has received advice from Minister Harris, dated the 6th of July, in which he states that the Japanese steamer Candianmura had arrived at Yaddo from San Francisco, and her return voyage was navigated by Japanese alone. "This," he says, "is the first instance that a vessel commanded solely by Asiatics has successfully crossed the great North Pacific Ocean and strikingly prove the Japanese to be capable of improvement that they might soon place themselves at the head of Oriental enterprise, if they were allowed freely to cultivate the great powers they possess."

The commander of the steamer, with two of the Governors for Foreign Affairs, called on Mr. Harris, saying they came by command of the Emperor, and were directed to express to him His Majesty's sincere thanks for the friendly and cordial manner in which the Commander and officers of his steamer had been received by the authorities and people of San Francisco. They were directed to thank him particularly for the complete repairs made to their steamer at the Mare Island Navy Yard, and express the deep sense His Majesty entertained of the kindness and courtesy of Captain Cunningham, Commander of the Yard.

The reports of the officers of the Candianmura, and the letters received from the Embassy, with full accounts of their reception at San Francisco, and the kindness shown them by all classes of our people, have produced a lively sensation, especially among the nobles who were here before opposed to the treaty of Yaddo. One of the officials privately remarked to Mr. Harris, "We did not believe you when you told us of the friendly feelings of your country for us, but we now see that all you said was true." Mr. Harris is of the opinion that when the Ambassador returns to Japan, and relates their reception by the President, and repeats their large experience in the United States, and when they state what they have seen of the greatness and prosperity of our country, it will have an important effect on the minds of those who have objected to intercourse with foreign nations, and lead to a better state of feeling on their part toward us.

THE REMAINS OF GEN. WM. WALKER.—Capt. J. S. West, a devoted friend and well known companion in arms of the late and lamented Gen. Wm. Walker, called to-day, in the presence John A. Taylor, for Transit. Captain West goes down to obtain, if possible, the remains of General Walker, for his aged father in Nashville, and to visit his worthy and venerable mother who he believes to be in the city of New York.

THE NAVAL DANCER.

Micha Hesser, the violinist, who describes an exacting scene which he recently witnessed in Melbourne, Australia:—

The curtain rose. A French dancer, an elegant, supple young lady, of no great beauty, but much expression and apparently on good terms with herself, appeared in the scene in her short, lace dress, received by an outburst of applause, and by the martial trumpet of the orchestra. But from the other side came a youthful, blooming Spanish eroles, with beautiful eyes, large and soft; her complexion rosy, her figure tall; in fact the impersonation of Terpsichore. She bowed modestly—it was her first appearance at Melbourne—and the enthusiasm of the public, suppressed by her beauty, manifested itself in vehement cheers. The two dancers struggled for the palm of victory in a graceful Tarantula. Like two glittering butterflies they whirled round, accompanied by music and applause. The mercurial Parisienne made use of her most seductive wiles, of her most refined pirouettes, of her most enchanting attitudes; but the eroles seemed patronized by the Greeks themselves. Thundering applause encouraged her; and as often as she came forward with her graceful modesty, songways, and rings and bracelets were thrown at her feet. The French lady struggled with her last strength against the triumph of her rival, until, disheartened and exhausted, she fell to the ground. The eroles approached her with compassion to raise her, when suddenly the Parisienne darted up, and with looks full of hate and fury, boxed the ears of her rival. The audience hissed and hooted, while she exclaimed, with much passion: "The wretch tripped me!" The poor eroles declared with dignity that she was innocent of the meanness; but a vulgar word which slipped out of the lips of the French dancer against her, suddenly aroused all the passions of the South in her bosom, and a singular struggle began. The two excited ladies rushed upon each other, and wrestled and tore, and pulled one another's hair, while the thunders of the gallery made the whole atmosphere vibrate. I never saw a more natural performance. The better side of the public did not interfere, but seemed rather to be amused by these Olympic exercises, until the eroles, bleeding and fainting, was carried away from the scene. Some officers, who, from a box, had witnessed the spectacle, were revolted at the conduct of the Parisienne, and sent for the police to arrest her, but her friends collected and resisted the constables. A riot ensued, a portion of the public rushed on the stage; they jumped across the orchestra; the fiddles and bass viols were broken; the ladies were fainting; children crying, and I took to my heels with my fiddle and ran away without stopping until I reached my hotel.
