PUBLIC LIBRARY
Wednesday and Saturday Mornings.
CHAMBERSBURG, JULY 31, 1861.

Home again.

On Sunday afternoon last our town was thrown into quite an excitement by the unexpected announcement that the Franklin County companies, belonging to the 2nd Regiment, were at the Depot. As soon as the news of their arrival spread our streets were crowded by a dense mass of people all eagerly rushing to the Depot to welcome them home. The companies were marched from the Depot, followed by a vast concourse of people, to the Public Square, where they were dismissed. The men have all, without an exception that we noticed, improved in personal appearance, and the full number that left here come back in excellent condition. They have performed a good share of arduous service during their three months enlistment, but, with a few slight exceptions, all have enjoyed remarkably good health, and return to their homes in fine spirits. Quite a number of the men say that they are ready to re-enlist for three years, and many would have entered the service at once, at Harrisburg, had it not been for the outrageous treatment they there received. We are satisfied, from the feeling among our people that a full regiment could be raised in this country, in less than a month, if the men could be assured that the bad treatment our soldiers have been subjected to would not be repeated. As it now stands, few, if any, would be willing to risk another enlistment for so long a term.

Another Awful Panic.

This seems to be the Age of Panics, but of all the Panics that have yet turned up, the most awful, and yet at the same time the most ludicrous, is the one that has seized upon GREELEY! He has left the battle-field on a double-quick, his long coat streaming in the wind, his white hat thrown away, his canteen, haversack and knapsack flung in a fence corner, his musket—but no matter about GREELEY'S musket—and he declares he won't fire another shot during the war!

GREELEY is out in a "Card" in the Tribune in which he admits that an awful panic has seized upon him, and that he won't open his mouth about the war again, let it be long or short. GREELEY, like the rest of LINCOLN'S Generals, for he it understood, he is one of them, and the one to that hurried up the late battle, is utterly disgusted with the way things are going, and is anxious to rid himself of all responsibility for blunders, mishaps and bad management generally, past, present and future. Well, some good may come out of this, after all. The country has got rid of GREELEY's valuable services and we shouldn't wonder that the next battle would be a victory.

Sunday Battles.

It is an astonishing historical fact (which we recently heard an eloquent minister impressively dwell upon) that in almost every great battle fought on the Lord's Day, the attacking party has been defeated! That of Massassus, on Sunday last, adds another deplorable instance to this list of wonderful and seemingly Providence facts!—Hancock.

When Count Lemanowski, who had served with Napoleon in all his wars, lectured in this place, several years ago, we remember him stating in his lecture that Sunday Battles always resulted to the discomfiture of the attacking party. He instances, we think, some twenty-six prominent battles, fought on Sunday, in which the attacking party were defeated. If there is a tinge in the history of a nation, more than all other times, when its rulers should "serve God and keep his Commandments," it is during the prevalence of civil war—the most cruel, horrible and sinful of all wars. The desecration of the Lord's Day, by our Army, we must not suffer ourselves will go unpunished; but an authority that we dare not neglect hath said, "the Lord hath given by his right hand, and by the arm of his strength, that the nations and the kingdoms that will not serve him shall perish, and be wasted with desolation." There is a needless destruction of the hard-fought by our Army, and for almost wanton aggression retribution will surely follow at the right time of day.

Democrats Sustaining the Union.

A vote was taken recently at Camp Utley, Minnesota, which resulted as follows: Democrats, 890, Republicans, 120. A similar vote in the army south of the Potomac would show about the same proportion. The New York Tribune Argument, which passed here, last night, in the course of its discussion of the "Stern" or "Foe" of the "Confederacy," is a sort of letters of marque granted to the Tribune to privateer on the Democratic party of the country. It did not contain names who voted for President Lincoln. It came from a man of old rank and the name of "Hannibal" (Hannibal Hamlin). It is a fortunate cir-

The London Times on the War.

The London Times, of the 9th inst., has an article speculating on the issue of the American War in which it foreshadows results that have since turned up, and altogether appears to have a better understanding of the state of our army that we in the north have been taught. We know the rank and file of our army were all right, and never for a moment doubted the bravery of our commanding officers, but sad experience now makes it evident that it requires something more than bravery to win a battle.—Whether the Government thinks so or not the people now know that battles cannot be successfully fought unless we have officers who thoroughly understand the business of war, and in whom the men have confidence. We trust for the honor of the country, and the speedy termination of the war, that no more battles will be risked until every regiment is under trained officers. The London Times makes the following fling at our army officers which although strictly true, we would rather not hear it from that quarter. The Times says:

"Now Gen. Scott has neither trained soldiers under him nor is he marching against Mexicans. His army is formed doubtless of good material, and in a few months, his recruits may be turned into excellent soldiers; but at present they are neither soldiers or what is worse, have they soldiers to command them. Ludicrous stories are told of the incapacity of the Federal officers, numbers of whom were mere party politicians, who have received colonelcies, and even generalships, instead of being appointed post-masters and collectors."

Dangers of the Hour.

We find the following sensible article in a religious newspaper of the Presbyterian denomination—the New York Observer. It would be well for all sects and parties to take the same view of the dangers that now beset our country before their liberties are clean gone forever."

"The most alarming among all the signs of the times is the disregard shown by many of the leading political journals to the spirit and the letter of the Constitution of the United States. It is no longer concealed, it is boldly avowed day after day that the Constitution must be invaded, overstepped, or, in other words, trampled upon, in order to carry on and carry out this war. This is corruption of the ranks! This is the utter abandonment of political morality, and the country is in the last stages of desirable existence, when good men on whom we have relied as the supporters of national virtues, tell us that the Constitution is not to stand in the way of the President, in the management of our public affairs.—Such men should remember that the Constitution is above the President. No man swears allegiance to the President but all men owe it to the Constitution. And when the doctrine becomes popular, as it is to-day, that times of great public danger and national exigencies, the character of all our political rights may be disregarded by those who are sworn to defend it, then our liberties are already gone, and they can be recovered only by such a struggle as it takes to cast out devils from one possessed."

How to Know Them.

Whenever and wherever you see a man clamorously denouncing every effort to settle our National difficulties, without incurring the loss of life and treasure that must eventually ensue, if the struggle goes on, and demanding, with all the fury of his nature, that nothing less than a complete annihilation of the entire South will do, it may be set down as a fixed fact that that individual is not going to peril his life for the success of his desirous. It is an undeniable truth, that boisterous language and a cowardly heart, always go together.

J. Allison—Editor.

It is with no ordinary feelings of regret that we announce to our readers that our esteemed fellow townsmen, Mr. J. Allison Everett, is a prisoner in the hands of the daring rebels of Virginia. Mr. Everett visited Charlestown, a short time ago, for the purpose of looking after some business matters, and while there accompanied a friend, a Virginian, to Winchester. While in Winchester he was not, we believe, molested, but shortly after leaving that place, to return home, he fell into the hands of the rebel scouts and was arrested by them and taken back and lodged in the Winchester jail. Several acquaintances of Mr. Everett, at Winchester, made efforts to have him released and had hopes of being successful, but before they could accomplish it, he, with several other prisoners, was removed to Richmond where he is now detained as a prisoner in the hands of Jeff Davis' minions. We look upon the arrest of Mr. Everett as a most wanton outrage. He was no man in arms against them, or in any way connected with the army, and is too honorable a man to act in the capacity of a spy. There was no charge brought against him—noting to warrant his arrest, or to justify or palliate, in any way such an outrage on an unoffending citizen of Pennsylvania. Mr. Everett has many friends in Virginia and we have no doubt, as soon as his case is brought to the attention of the proper authorities, that he will at once be released and sent home.

More Arrests by the Rebels.

We understand that several citizens of this county are detained as prisoners by the Virginia rebels, among them W. H. Brotherton, G. Walker, L. B. Kurtz and Joshua McCumsey, all of Washington township. We trust that if these men are not speedily liberated measures of retaliation will be taken, and that some of the prominent private citizens of Virginia will be brought here and lodged in jail. The thing can be easily managed. Let the rebels be made to understand that this is a game that two can play at.

Killed by Lightning.

During the thunder-storm on Sunday last a fine three year old colt belonging to Mr. John Ashway, of Green township, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The colt, with three others, was in the orchard, near the house, at the time it received the electric discharge. The tree under which it was found dead, and also the other colts, escaped uninjured.

We also learn that a barn belonging to Mr. Grossman, near Marion, was struck by lightning on Sunday evening and with its contents totally consumed. The fire was plainly visible from this place.

Thank.

We are under many obligations to several friends for their efforts to increase our subscription list recently. They are real, live Democrats and have done nobly. May they continue steadfast in the good work, and may others "go and do likewise." If they could only realize how it gladdens a printer's heart to receive a batch of new subscribers, we are sure they would forthwith gather them up and forward them on. One gentleman sends us eight subscribers from Alto Dale, which he obtained for the asking. Others could do the same if they would try—try, keep trying.

Laid Over.

A reply to the spiteful article in the Lincolmites' ally—the Times—was prepared for this number of our paper, but as we have not picked the quarrel, and feel little disposed to continue it, we will disappoint the expectations of the Republicans in a manner, by laying it over for the present. The Times, which receives no countenance or support from the Democratic party must be doing something to gratify its Republican patrons, and it well understands that abusing the Spirit is a part of the Republican creed besides this it is under contract to abuse the Spirit or forfeit the "endorsement." This famous "endorsement" is a sort of letters of marque granted to the Times to privateer on the Democratic party of the country.

The New York Tribune Argument, which passed here, last night, in the course of its discussion of the "Stern" or "Foe" of the "Confederacy," is a sort of letters of marque granted to the Tribune to privateer on the Democratic party of the country. cumstance that the boasted supply of "pro-southerners" has held out or it would have gone to the bottom long ago. It is not playing the part of Ferry toward the Democratic party, in this country, and the Republicans will contrive to keep it alive "by hook or by crook" for their special advantage until after the election. The Democracy will beware of the "wolf in sheep's clothing."

Bible Sentiments.

We wish that the true cause for the Government to pursue is, to carry on the war vigorously and energetically, and not to reign in a state of meekness contrary to the original tendency of the law.—Nevertheless, if any man can suggest a method for the enforcement of the whole difficulty enter the house to the Government, and that will insure the integrity of the country, and restore the favored relations of the people, he will only be gladly heard, but instead of sealing his political death, he will be elevated to the dignity of a savior of his country, and his name and memory will be revered long as a Freeman lives to tremble at his heart.

Brooks Help.

The Virginia Secession Convention, while in session at Richmond passed the following ordinance:

And, Whereas, James Buchanan, late President of the United States, has surrendered us from his private fortune to enable the military depots at Washington to subserve the good people of the State: Therefore,

Be it further ordained, That the name of Buchanan, heretofore given to a County of this Commonwealth, be, and the same is hereby, changed to the name of Stephenson.

This will be gratifying news for the "straight-outs," who were lately so fond of heaping honors on their pot-Sternians, and will, no doubt, make the venerable ex-President feel very bad! Since the "straight-outs" have the Secessionists to help them in denouncing Mr. BUCHANAN they may make their language a little stronger than such choice expressions as the "gates of hell let loose."

The President's Message.

The message of Abraham Lincoln, wherein he declares that it yet remains for the people "to demonstrate to the world that those who can fairly carry an election can also suppress a rebellion," is deliberate, at died insult to the Democracy of the entire North. Mr. Lincoln ought to know that the men who carried the election last fall, and thereby inaugurated civil war, are not now in the ranks of the army that is deliberately, at died insult to the Government.

He ought to know that a very large proportion of that army are men who voted against him—who detest his doctrines, and who regard them as dangerous to the peace of the country, and inimical to American freedom. They are there not to support a Black Republican Administration, but to maintain and uphold the Government under which they live.—Columbia Democrat.

Direct Taxation.

The Bill now before Congress providing for taxation to raise additional revenue for the government proposes to raise $30,000,000 by a tax on all lands and lots of ground, with their improvements, dwelling houses, chattles and slaves. The amount of tax is distributed proportionately among each of the thirty four States and the Territories, according to the assessed value of property. The amount which falls to Pennsylvania's share is nearly three millions of dollars ($2,920,000). The several States, it is probable, will be divided into collection districts. It is proposed to tax all stills, boilers, and other utensils used in the distillation for spirituous liquors fifteen cents on every gallon of capacity, and to lay a tax of five cents per gallon on all fermented and malted liquors, and of ten cents per gallon on all spirituous liquors. There is also to be a tax on carriages, excluding vehicles for the transportation of merchandise. The tax varies from $1 for a carriage worth $50, to $50 for a carriage valued at $1000. How the Collector is to collect the tax in the insurgent States, the bill does not say, but it is to be collected as well as any volunteers could under similar circumstances. At regards the officer, he is more guarded in his expression, but is understood to intend that it was unreasonable to expect gentlemen to whom war and battle was a novelty, to conduct an engagement of such magnitude against generals whose whole life have been passed amid such scenes.

As regards the future conduct of the war, it will not be particularly prudent, hereafter, for impudent Members of Congress to obtrude their advice upon the Commander-in-chief or the War Department.

One of the Effects of Civil War.

A member of the Seventy-first Regiment of New York states that in one of the charges of that regiment upon a Rebel battery, he met at the point of the bayonet a member of one of the Virginia regiments, with whom he had formed intimate relations of friendship while the Rebel soldier was at college in New York. Each instantly recognized the other, and instead of carrying out the task of death, they clasped hands with the exclamation, "God bless you," and departed.

Assistant Secretary of War.

In accordance with the recommendations which have been made, a new Assistant officer, to be named the "Assistant Secretary of War," is about to be named.—Thomas A. Scott, a young lawyer known to the Vice President, "Wm. H. Seward," and introduced to the President by General Scott, is mentioned as a possibility. He is a young man of great talents, and the President, it is said, has named him to the office.

The term for which the troops from Pennsylvania were called into service having expired, and nearly all of them having returned to their homes, the Commanding General, by direction of the War Department, relinquishes the command of this Department, on the expiration of the term of service.

The Commanding General regrets to leave, but he does so with the satisfaction that you have steadily advanced in the face of the enemy, greatly improving in numbers and armament, and in the skillful battle which they refused to fight, protected by their strong entrenched positions.

You have done well that is possible, and more could have been expected had you been allowed, and if advantage had been taken of your sacrifices and if the fruits of your campaign had been harvested, the fault cannot be imputed to you.

To the members of the Department Staff, he renders his thanks for their efficient aid and devotion to duty.

Interesting from Missouri.

An exciting contemporary of yesterday, contains the following:

A reliable gentleman of this city furnishes us with an interesting statement, received from the lips of a wealthy Virginian residing within a few miles of Memphis Junction. He is a man of Northern birth and Union feelings, though forced to go with the Southern current, as his property, family, etc., are all in that region.

The gentleman states that the facts witnessed at the battle of Shiloh near Memphis, and describes the conduct of the Federal troops during and brave in every respect. They fought as tenaciously as bulldogs. During Shiloh night, after the extirpation of the battle was subduing our informant escaped from his residence near Memphis, got through the Rebel lines, and entered Washington city in company with hundreds of stragglers. He had business at the North, and took this means of attending to it.

Our informant states that the Rebels beat at the battle in three and four thousand. The Black Horse Cavalry, the crack regiment of Virginia, was not terribly cut up, only two hundred out of the regiment being seen after the battle. Further, our informant declares that it was a most fortunate thing for the Union troops that they did not drive the Rebels beyond Memphis, while the battle lasted, for within a mile of the city the Rebels, the greatest army we ever saw, in the main battle as well as in the rear parties of garrison were placed there. It was the intention of Beauregard to retreat, if driven back, until the Federal army had moved forward upon those masses, when they would have been first and the Union troops blown to atoms.

Our informant thinks the Government is not at all aware of the extent of these Rebel preparations to destroy our troops. There are upwards of 12,000 negroes employed to work in the contrabands at Memphis, and about the same number employed in the outreaches of Richmond at Richmond. Our informant is the owner of a large number of slaves, and was required to furnish a certain number of them for work for the Rebels every day.

General Lee was not at Memphis when the battle occurred, but was at Richmond, commanding the entire forces there, which our informant says is 10,000 men.

The city of Richmond is surrounded with mines like those of Minnesota, and if we Rebels had the Union men trying to take it, the city will be blown up.

Had the Federal forces beyond Memphis last Sunday in order, probably would not have been able to get across the river.

The Rebels transports good arms, but are very badly equipped.

Not over a hundred men were allowed to witness the great battle of Shiloh, others being kept back by the commandant, who did not see fit, with the exception of a few of the more providential officers.

There are two regiments of well armed, for, given at Richmond.

The histories of the battles of the South against the North are described in detail, and our informant thought that Federal prisoners would suffer bad treatment, but that the Rebels would be kinder.
