Yes—auch is the legalty I have shown; But I have a sponse who is all my own; As good, indeed, so a man could be; And who could ask for a better than he? THE VOLENTERE'S MOTHER.

He is my bey, my only boy:
His father died long years gone by;
And little heve I known of joy.
But gesing on his dark blue eye.
'Thi sighted new with higher glow:
His country onlis him; let him go!

He never griaved me: tender, kind, Strong, loving: full of hope and grave; My heart but mirrored back his fast. With sters resolve he costle she fee: His country sal a him; let him go!

His country have I sat beside
Him sleeping, clustering around his bend
These rich brewn looks, my praise, my pride,
And now the earth must be his bed.
The wrong to griver for this, I know,
His country call's him; I is him go!

LIFE AS IT IS.

In one of the pricipal streets of a great city stood large boarding house, whose white marble front and genorel air beapube the eristorcase of its inmates. One could tellit was a board-ing house, from the many faces—fair and plain—litting at or near the windows. It was fire o'clock—the fashionable dinner hour.

Already the public drawing-room and private parlors were filled with youth and beauty. In one, a buy of fair women were grouped together, taking rapilly and excitedly.

It tell you, it is mighty strange.—I should not true to day; and last right, after the world. Clars? I am sure! I should not trust my maid in a similar case. They are all found of the markels.

As for being in her room in daytime, that is nothing strangs—if he had gone thirty times. At a hotel, one's room is one's home; and who wants to run to the drawing rooms to see every one that calls.

"Well, I agree with Clara Wilbur, said another voice. I do not think we should notice Mrs Leeds any more. I shan't for one. She is too secretive and mysterious." I shan't notice her, either.

"Nor I—nor I, said one and another."

A Libel on Pennsylvania Soldjers.

On the 19th inst., a skirmish took place in front of Munfordsville, Ky., in which a portion of the Pennsyl-vania soldiers attached to the 77th and 19th regiments, are represented by a writer in the Cincinnati-Gazette, to have become panic stricken and retreated from the field without an enemy being in sight. A correspondent of the Louisville Journe prenounces this statement "from first to last an inflamous falsehood," and note its author down as "a for No such occurrence writer describes ever took place. ## Judge Graham's Charge.

Judge Graham's tharps.

We would call the special attention of our readers to the charge recently delivered to the Graud Jury of Cumberland County, by his Honor Judge Graham, which we publish on another page of to-day's paper. It is one of the most adminshed productions we have yet seen on the subject of the present deporable civil war in our country. The Judge discusses the Issues involved with great clearness and force. He deals out heavy blows on the diamnionists of the South, who are attempting to overthrow the best government ever devised by the wisdomof man; and equally as heavy on those other disunionists, who would trample on the constitution and seet the government of their country wrecked in ruins rather than abate one iot of their blind axel for an impracticable idea —the abolitionists and emancipationists of the North. Read it, one and all, and then hand it to your neighbor.
